

Summer 2014

Jurgens Whiskyhuis

New distillery approved

Plans for a new whisky distillery and visitor centre on the banks of the River Clyde in Glasgow have been given the go-ahead.

Plans include revamping the pump house building, which sits between the Riverside Museum and the Hydro Arena.

It will house a museum and visitor centre while new buildings will contain a cafe, whisky tasting bar and the single malt Scotch whisky distillery.

The £10m project has been developed by a small group of industry experts led by Tim Morrison, owner of the AD Rattray Scotch Whisky Company.
